

BURGARS "LEAP FOR LIFE"

A Hoboken Thief's Exhibition of Daring That Pleased a Mighty Crowd.

Jumped an Alley from Roof to Roof
and Swung from Windows
by His Hands.

FEATS THAT "BLUFFED" THE POLICE.

Cheered by an Excited Multitude, He Led
Them a Wild Chase Over Roofs, to Be Caught Finally in a Coal Cellar.

John Daly, who says he is a laborer, entered the house of Herman Ostermann, at No. 333 Bloomfield street, Hoboken, while the family was absent on Thursday to see what he could pick up. He put on a suit of Mr. Ostermann's clothes and an overcoat. He used his own overcoat to wrap up a number of small valuables. Just as he was leaving by the front door, having lighted one of Mr. Ostermann's cigars, Ostermann's son met him. The young man's suspicions were excited by the bundle, and Daly voluntarily accompanied him back into the house and gave up the parcel.

He overheard young Ostermann tell the housemaid to go for a policeman. Then he made a quick dash through the front door. Ostermann yelled "Stop thief!" and housemaid Hanson and Policeman Harrison started in pursuit. The chase led to the puffed policeman through Fourth street to Washington street. At each door Daly hid. He hid in the coal cellar, and when the policeman came to the door of a tenement and gained the roof. The crowd remained in the street and yelled lustily and the police labored up the stairs.

The quarry dodged on the roof and ran back over the roof of five-story tenement houses in Fourth street, taking the brick partition walls in his stride, like a veteran steeplechaser. Half way down the block he came to a row of three-story houses removed from the tenements by an alley. Daly hesitated. It was a dangerous jump. He looked back and saw the policeman laboring along after him three or four houses back. Then he jumped. Never was a daily audience so enthusiastic before. He barely reached the roof and caught and steadied himself on the stone coping. His nerve pleased the crowd and it yelled with delight as the policeman came up to the jump and refused it.

Other policemen who had followed in the street were ascending to the roof of the lower houses. There was no time to be lost. Daly ran on to the corner of Bloomfield street, turned and ran over the roof of the house he had robbed.

By this time there was a fresh team of police on the roof. Half way down the block the fugitive was stopped by a tall man. The police began to walk and run, their bows, believing they had the thief. The crowd below awaited a speedy denouement. Daly looked back, and, seeing the sill of the fourth-story window, swung out over the street. Hand over hand he went from window sill to window sill, paying no heed to the cheering crowd below or to a head-beated woman above, who poked her head out and told him he "ought to be ashamed of himself."

No. 325 Bloomfield street is a lower building, and when Daly reached it he found a footing on a window sill, and opening the window went in. The crowd yelled even more vigorously, and the baffled policeman pursued him to the coal cellar, whence he fled. Ignominiously dragged by the collar. At the police station Daly said he lived at No. 130 Cherry street, this city.

BROOKLYN'S CYCLE SHOW.

It Will Open To-morrow Night and Continue During the Entire Week.

Brooklyn's cycle show will open to-morrow night and will be the last affair of the kind in this vicinity for some time to come. Extensive preparations have been made by the Cycle Club of Brooklyn, under the auspices of the show will be conducted, and the old Thirteenth Regiment Armory, at the junction of Flatbush avenue and Hanson place, has been transformed until it bears an unusual appearance. The opening night has been designated as "society night," and Mayor Wurstler will formally open the show with a short address. Park Commissioner McCaffrey, another member, will introduce the Mayor.

Tuesday night has been set apart for the Associated Cycle Clubs of Long Island. Wednesday night for League of American Wheelmen members, and Thursday night the Cycle Club members. Friday night Long Island people outside of Brooklyn will be especially catered to, and Saturday night the affair will terminate.

Krushinsky's Costly Bluff.
John R. Krushinsky lost his position on the police force about a year ago because it was said he procured some one to undergo the mental examination required by the rules of the department. He instituted proceedings to review his dismissal, and the Court decided against him. Yesterday Daniel Sullivan, an examiner in the office of the Court, decided against Krushinsky with an order to show cause why he should not be imprisoned for failure to pay the costs of the proceedings.

IS JUDGE R. N. ARNOW NOW

Governor Morton's Latest Judicial Appointment Is a Well Known New York Lawyer.

Richard N. Arnoff, who was appointed Judge of the Twelfth Judicial District of New York City, by Governor Morton, on Thursday, is a well-known lawyer of this city. The court district is a new one, formed recently to include the annexed part of Westchester.

Mr. Arnoff is forty-three years of age, married, and has one daughter. He was born in this city, and until nearly thirty years old was engaged in mechanical occupations. Then he took charge of the mercantile business of his uncle, Mitchell Valentine, of Westchester, and while there conceived the idea of becoming a lawyer. He studied law with the old firm of Faddock & Cannon, of this city.

He is a partner of J. Fred Coyer. His home is just outside of Westchester, on the edge of the old Brunner estate. He has been active in politics for some years, and is said to have had the strong endorsement of Thomas C. Platt for his present appointment.

"Veranda Workers" Make a Nail.
Buffalo, March 7.—Early last evening thieves entered the residence of General George S. Field, No. 452 Delaware avenue, and stole jewelry and money to the value of between $3,000 and $7,000. It is thought the thieves are professional and belong to the class known as "veranda workers." The robbery was committed with great neatness and was only discovered when the family was preparing to retire for the night. So far the police have no clue to the thieves.

Acceptance of the Erickson Sure.
Washington, March 7.—The recent court trial of the torpedo boat Erickson at New London, Conn., insures the acceptance of that unfortunate little vessel by the Government. The only trouble found was that the machinery was not by six tons overweight. The Board found the Erickson to be strong and durable and built according to the specifications. The machinery worked well. The loss from Works, of Duquesne, have agreed to waive all right to make another attempt to save premiums through a speed trial, in view of the accidents with which the other attempts were attended, and to forfeit $10,000 of the contract allowance for overtime penalties.
